General Introduction

A few words of explanation before starting on your chart: studied for thousands of years, astrology is first of all a social science based on the influences of heavenly bodies on human nature. We know that human beings undergo influences of vibrational kind from the very moment of their birth onwards. These subtle influences, whether of cosmotelluric origin or another, act on our molecules. Recent discoveries among others in biology, medicine and physics tend to prove that.

The astrological tradition associated every major planet with a metal (sun = gold, moon = silver, Venus = copper ...). Now, the study made by a researcher in molecular biology, Mr Etienne GUILLE* (specialist in research into the induction mechanisms on cancer), establishes a relationship between biology and astrology. In every chromosome, the DNA molecule contains metals playing a basic part in the opening of the molecular chain. In the last few years, it has been noticed that certain metals (those indicated by the astrologers) had the capacity to enter into the molecule and open it. Besides, we know that the connections between the DNA molecules and the metals vary in the course of the cellular development. That is why we included the notion of age in these chart analyses. Thus, the planets influencing our character go through periods of time during which their power of action is increased (sun: 33 to 40 years ...); this results in changes on the psychological level (planets in the signs).

Yet, don't make the mistake of thinking that the planetary action is strictly limited to one period of time. Of course, that age bracket is very important but there are reasons to think that there is an interaction during the whole life. In the same way, the field covered by astrology is not only restricted to biology or any other science. This explains why, in addition to the astral influences, you have to take into account heredity, the social background and also the family context and environment in which you live. Armed with this warning, we now invite you to read your chart interpretation, which we have split up into two parts.

First Part : Definitions of your Sun Sign and Ascendant

SOLAR SIGN: PISCIS

Neptune's influence on your sign indicates an undefined, hypersensitive and extremely receptive nature. But behind your sluggish disposition lies spiritual richness and a deep-reaching universe. You are romantic and your lively and wild imagination is tinged with a climate of mystery and dream in search of peace and serenity. It is true that you sometimes lack energy and revel in melancholy, but these periods are followed by overexcitement, and you then fully show your good-heartedness and generosity. Your belief-system is not based on rigour and logic, but on a diffuse perception of people and things. Intuition gives your intelligence its foundation; you long to stretch out further the boundaries of knowledge by calling on irrationalism and the unlimited. Your love life often gets disturbed by a few fancies. You are looking for a partner who surrounds you with tenderness, and encourages and protects you. Beware: your excessively confident and credulous nature lays you open to disappointments in romance. As a result of that tendency, you often idealize love and wrap it up in a naïve sentimentality or bury it in dreams. You are pleasant and willingly understanding towards your loved ones, and many of your friends come to confide their most intimate secrets in you. Yet, by being too conciliatory, you incur the risk of making enemies (through your indecisiveness). If you want to give full worth to your life, you have to fight a certain passiveness; that could be achieved by developing a climate that is emotionally favourable to enterprises. Although you can find happiness through inner self-fulfilment or your need to devote yourself to others, you are in great danger of indulging in illusion or certain parallel, perhaps even dissident, activities that are likely to be castles in the air.

The ascendant sign is at the intersection of the plane of the ecliptic and the horizon at the east. As important as the solar sign, it determines in large part the personality, constitution and physical appearance but also the hereditary tendencies.

ASCENDANT SIGN: CANCER

The influence of the Moon on this sign emphasizes your sensitiveness, receptiveness and intuition. You are of a sentimental disposition and revel in contemplation or dreams that put you in a gentle melancholy mood; you look shy. You are endowed with a remarkable force of inertia, which enables you to face any opposing force with a strong resistance and take up a very determined stand. Beside possessing an outstanding memory, you have a vivid and sensory imagination, drawn to the irrational. The education you received plays a fundamental role, in particular for the blossoming out of your qualities; it will be of considerable weight in your destiny. Your affections are deep provided they can unfold in a gentle and tender climate. A partner with a strong will could better help you realize your dreams. She will have to accept your changes of mood and manic-depressive nature. You are courteous, affable and quite hospitable, and you like sharing what you have. You are pleasant, although discreet, and you have a natural talent to avoid making enemies; your subtlety in relationships generally smoothes away any disagreement. Nevertheless, the least annoyance takes on a paramount importance in your eyes, and you can harbour hidden grudges for a long time. Your lack of self-esteem tends to paralyze you: however, friends and loved ones could help you gain self-confidence. The "awakening" of your personality often comes late in life; that is the reason why your aspirations will mostly come true in the second part of your life. All contacts with the general public are particularly beneficial to you.

Second Part : Planets in Signs and Houses

	<h1>Moon and Mercury</h1>
---	---------------------------	--

The associated period of time is childhood.

The moon rules personality, imagination and memory: it covers more specifically the first six years of life.

As for Mercury, it stands for reason, expression and especially intelligence. Its action is a determining one from six years on till the end of adolescence.

MOON in SAGITARIUS

You are inclined to a certain cheerfulness and live confiding relationships with people around you. You are warm-hearted and in deep harmony with the world and its laws. You have talents for philosophy and politics (sometimes religion), but always striving towards humanitarian ideals. You like sports and are eager for adventure, so you are likely to travel abroad on many occasions. The Moon in this sign brings a certain good luck on the material level and shows promise of a certain elevation in status.

MOON in House 06

Your qualities of obligingness make you a very good assistant, and your relationships with the professional environment are mostly agreeable. You are likely to practise several occupations. Though you know how to save your energy, you worry a lot about your health and feel a constant need to have treatment (weaknesses inherited from your mother or psychosomatic illnesses that do not impair your life expectancy). Cures at spas are beneficial to you. Men usually have little ambition and sometimes marry persons from a modest, humble background. You feel affection for domestic animals. Bad aspects imply a lot of feminine jealousy, sometimes abuse of medicines.

MERCURY in ARIES

Your mind is quick and curious: your intellect is directed to action. Your opinions are clear and cut-and-dried; you accept neither indecisiveness nor useless waste of time. You are well-spoken and quick at repartee, and you show so much conviction in what you say that you often put your opponents in uncertainty and easily win an audience to your theories. A little more flexibility and a little less impatience would be welcome.

MERCURY in House 10

Your position is generally brilliant. You are an active individual who excels in professions requiring eloquence and the sense of relationships, or involving numerous contacts (tradesman, journalist, advertiser, lawyer, businessman, or sales representative). Whether you are the boss, a clerk or self-employed, you always set your heart on working in group and share responsibilities. You are very mobile and capable of running several concerns at the same time. Trips for professional reasons are likely and mostly beneficial. In your old days, you are likely to feel a revival of interest in literature.

	<h2>Venus and Mars</h2>
--	-------------------------	--

These two planets symbolize "youth". Their action is a determining one from sixteen years on (sometimes earlier) and progressively decreases in the thirties.

Venus inspires with feelings, beauty and love.

As for Mars, it gives information about activity and energy.

VENUS in ARIES

You view love as a fight, a pressing conquest. You go through periods of intense romantic fever, and your feelings are generally burning and passionate. When courting someone, you show yourself irresistible and overattentive, but once the relationship is established, you often let yourself be overwhelmed by weariness and disappointment. You get involved quickly, often even hastily, which usually brings about instability in the relationship. You like to live from day to day with all the ups and downs that this implies. On the financial level, you have to avoid excessive spending habits.

VENUS in House 10

This position favours access to brilliant situations. You are very much appreciated by members of the opposite sex and your numerous friends will no doubt help you have a pleasant career. However, you could also get this support from your wife (the first encounter sometimes takes place within your professional circle). All forms of trade related to luxury items or to art and liberal professions are beneficial to you. This lucky position also favours relationships with children and often indicates that your family life unfolds in a peaceful and harmonious context. Generally, you have special feelings of tenderness for one of your parents.

MARS in CAPRICORN

You expend a lot of action and energy on trying to satisfy your great ambition. Your character is assertive, your will is to achieve social status and power. You have an enterprising mind and the taste for responsibilities aiming at positive achievements (you lack neither practical sense nor carefulness). The considerable moral strength you are endowed with, drives you to take leadership in long-range projects based on a big amount of work and a strenuous resistance to all obstacles. You can be cold and calculating, and merciless towards your enemies. You often achieve success, though it mostly comes late in life and sometimes isolates you (among others on the romantic level).

MARS in House 07

There is a parallel between marriage and associations. You look for a partner (wife/husband or associate) who is active, dynamic but also authoritarian and impulsive. If this aggressiveness is channelled in a positive way, you can expect an enriching marriage and fruitful associations because you will feel backed up perhaps even carried. Otherwise, it is to be feared that you will have numerous conflicts with your wife/husband or associate, who can prove to be tyrannous and thus try to have control over you. In any case, it is recommended to take advice from a man of law in order to check all the clauses of the contract committing you.

	<h1>Sun Jupiter Saturn</h1>
--	-----------------------------	--

The sun states the principles of self-assertion of the individual, evolution, will and especially achievement. It also stands for a better success. Its action applies to the period from thirty to forty.

SUN in House 10

This is one of the best positions for career. Social rise is guaranteed, even if it takes you a long time to achieve it. You are competent in organizing and running sizeable businesses. Most of the time, you are the one who has done well in the family. You are gifted at making friends easily and finding support from influential people. In the same way, marriage is often a stepping stone towards your career and it is often basically not as important emotionally speaking. The second part of your life seems to bring about full achievement of your ambitions. However, excessive self-confidence and persistent pushfulness or hard-heartedness in romance, could hurt your plans.

Jupiter rules expansion, generosity, the ideal and the quest for a certain wisdom. Its action is powerful from forty on and spreads till around fifty.

Saturn stands for the serious aspects of the personality; it is a factor of stability, slowness and solidity. It is usually associated with the end of life (retirement).

JUPITER in AQUARIUS

You show great moral freedom and high intellectual abilities, often tuned in to a community or humanitarian ideals. You are quite sociable and show a clear desire to exchange your original views in company; your friends are numerous and often powerful. They always help you at the appropriate moment and constitute your best asset to achieve success. Your talent for organizing is outstanding, among others in the field of applications, or even exploitation of new theories and ideas.

JUPITER in House 09

Your political or religious opinions are stamped with tolerance. This position cancels the bad effects of fanaticism, keeps you on the legal path and even enriches you with some moderation and wisdom. Careful and thrifty, you make sure you have something to fall back on. Fortune favours here careers that develop in a hierarchy. You feel attracted to philosophy and sciences that switch on imagination. Foreign countries can play a major part in your destiny, especially at maturity. All your trips, transactions and contacts with the outside world are an asset both from mental and material point of view.

SATURN in ARIES

With this position, your activity seems to be restricted or at least kept under control. It indicates little enthusiasm and frozen ardour. Saturn exudes a certain coldness; your strength of character is great but tends to quell the noble and generous impulses of your heart and replace them with rigour and hard-heartedness. Your ambition is powerful but generally doesn't show. Under cover of having discipline, you readily show yourself inflexible, both towards yourself and towards others. In the best cases, this position indicates calm and level-headedness, otherwise it stands for loneliness and misanthropy.

SATURN in House 10

With this position, professions requiring seriousness, time-awareness and a lot of patience, are particularly favoured. You are very ambitious but your career could be hindered by numerous enemies, criticisms or jealousies. Yet, you are capable of coping with these obstacles by taking your responsibilities; you are indeed extremely persistent and your projects are usually carefully planned. If you rise quickly, you probably won't be able to keep your position. However, a slow and progressive evolution carried through with faith and passion can take you to the top and keep you there, though this probably won't happen until late in life. Anyhow, you will need a lot of strength, courage and perseverance to rise in the professional world.

	<h1>Uranus Neptune Pluto</h1>
--	-------------------------------	--

We are going to finish your chart analysis with a close look at the slow-motion planets. Uranus enters another sign every seven years, Neptune every fourteen years and Pluto, at the moment, every thirteen years. The texts concerning these three planets apply to whole generations. But their influence in the houses is relevant on the individual level, especially if they are near the angles, i.e. ascendant, midheaven, descendant and nadir.

Uranus stands for originality, intuition and the ability to invent. Neptune rules spirituality and inspiration. As for Pluto, it symbolizes secret, destruction, transformation and rebirth.

URANO in VIRGO

This position emphasizes your resourcefulness, which could be put to excellent use in technical and scientific fields. For clerks, there are sometimes surprises consisting in unexpected promotions.

URANO in House 03

This position can stand for a difficult education due to your originality or abrupt manners. Studies applying to new activities (communication, electronics, computer science, media ...) or new and fast means of transport (electricity, aircraft, car ...) are favourable. You will be prompted all your life by curiosity to take interest in writings regarding new techniques or theories. The originality of your views can induce difficulties in your relations with the people around you. You know how to establish new contacts very quickly, but breakings off are just as short. You are likely to move a lot and use modern means of communication quite frequently (telephone, telex ...).

NEPTUN in House 11

You are likely to make quite numerous relationships within a group, party or association. Among your friends you have refined persons, artists and intellectuals. Friendship always bears a part of strangeness, combining sensations with some spiritual identity or a shared ideal. Besides, you are devoted and capable of accepting sacrifices in order to help others. Your projects could come true through lucky circumstances or confidential connections. Bad aspects influence established relations causing misunderstandings, slander, abuse of confidence or secret love affairs.

PLUTO in House 11

You have secret, confidential friendships, which do not rule out relations with people with more or less fishy activities. You build up numerous projects, but most of the time they are out of place or undergo thorough transformations. This position indicates a link between friendship and sexuality, sometimes apart from any moral consideration. Your views on friendship could be put through the mill, in which case you will be very critical in the choice of new friends.
