ANALYSIS

The first part of this analysis covers the Moon's Nodes, which are the North and South intersections of the Moon's elliptic orbit with the plane of the ecliptic. The second part is the interpretation of a "dark luminary", Lilith or the Black Moon, which is the second focus of the ellipse travelled by the Moon around the earth, which is considered to be the first focus.

THE MOON'S NODES

Their interpretation is particularly relevant in karmic astrology, which is based on our personal past and on previous lives. In that sense, the axis of the Moon's Nodes going from South to North is the growth that we have to accept and go through during this lifetime; all this happens in a space-time that goes beyond our current life. The South Node stands for the lessons from the past and the North Node for the outcome of our growth. The tensions in our lives are often the result of either a weak evolution in relation to the South Node, or, resistance to that evolution, as if we were swimming upstream in a river.

LILITH OR THE BLACK MOON

This "black luminary" conveys extremely radical concepts. Indeed, Lilith at the same time stands for our most ancestral memory, that of an innate knowledge, of a consciousness and awareness as sharp as a blade, and on the other hand, total rebellion, insubordination, the final "No" without concessions. It also stands for the ambivalence between the almost compulsive desire for the symbolic values of its sign-and-house placements, and the cut and dried refusal of those same values. It is the symbol of extreme freedom with its dazzling joys but also the pain of the "price to pay" for that very freedom.

Now, we invite you to start reading your Karmic chart interpretation.

	<h2>NORTH NODE IN PISCIS</h2>
--	-------------------------------	--

In previous lives, you rejected instinct in favour of the controlling power of reason. Your critical attitude and highly structured intellect had made you someone who was very knowledgeable in everything related to biology and the vital mechanisms. You were sometimes excessively rigid, and clearly tended to get lost in details or be dangerously fanatical about them. The fact is that you invested yourself so much in daily reality or had such an intellectualized vision of things, that you hardly had any time left to let your imagination go towards the abstract spheres! The unfortunate result of this was a lack of spontaneity and a sectarianism far too rational to be honest ... In your defense, it must be said that you were very obliging and often put your natural talents for practical organization to the service of those who needed it. In emotional matters, you were holding back your sensitiveness and didn't care too much for outbursts. You were behaving in romance in the same way as when you were confronted to the unknown ... by hesitating endlessly before committing yourself. Tenderness, impulses of the heart and passion were unknown words in your vocabulary of the heart.

In this life you sometimes persist in a lack of will or analysis regarding matters related to wideranging or generous objectives. You sometimes tend to amplify your negativity by transforming it or actualizing it into a form of organic disease ... but not at all imaginary! Many of your problems could be of emotional origin and generate a considerable nervous irritability. At times, you can be a puritan because you are reluctant to tune in to the forces of nature, which are too far from your "blinking" rationality! Yet, you go through frequent doubts and many callings into question that you need to answer. The solution for you is to develop your emotional world. You must absolutely trust your intuition and use your whole potential of imagination and inspiration. You are always busy taking the world apart and fitting each piece into its little square, but this restrictive vision of things slows down your evolution. You should tend towards a certain idea of vagueness, of the imperceptible or the non-concrete. Go for the overall picture in everything: you are not alone in a crazy world, you belong in it. You have to accept to throw yourself into the unknown and understand that not everything needs an explanation, that some things are beyond our grasp and are not yet definable by human reason only. One key to your evolution is also the way you will develop compassion and nobility of soul: you must share your feelings with other people and not be afraid of outbursts of emotions; they will be links towards a form of "mystical" perception of the world. You must accept the mysteries of life, emotions, and the imperceptible flows of the cosmos.

NORTH NODE IN HOUSE 03

In previous lives, your temperament drove you to practise isolated and abstract meditation. It was the stand of an "old magus", who was concerned only with philosophical or religious research, and whose vision was broad and ahead of its time. Your freedom of thought and expression was great and always carried you further, to foreign regions in particular, because travelling had a big share in your life. Unfortunately, all this fine knowledge was not very useful to others. Indeed, you communicated rarely, either because you avoided to make final judgements, or because of a certain moral isolation. At the worst, you could even take advantage of that same knowledge to manipulate others or use your great freedom to their detriment. You had a tendency to escape far away, whether physically through travelling, or psychologically through your spiritual and moral experiences.

Your whole problem in this life will be to go from the purely mental stage to the concrete stage or to a PRACTICAL MIND. Your integration into society is likely to be difficult because your nonconformism and anxiety towards social relationships constitute obstacles. You are clumsy in your explanations, and you could also be misunderstood, which would emphasize your nervousness and "agitation". Beware not to indulge in gratuitous and absolutely sterile protest about everything. Indeed, in spite of your nicely curious mind, you have the regrettable tendency not to finish what you started. The reason why you don't venture questioning authority, which you hate, is also a lack of willpower. You certainly have a great impact on people around you, but you should hold in check your taste for psychological "undressing": you constantly put people through your x-rays and it is sometimes quite embarrassing! In spite of all this, you could have privileged relationships with your siblings or immediate surroundings. Your goal in life must be to finally become the ideal messenger or perfect communicator. You must learn how to popularize your knowledge, use words in a way that is directly understandable by everyone, and pass on your message to those who need it. Therefore, you should stop spreading out your energies and start fighting your ego. Go towards others, your mission is to be the link between ideas and individuals. With that purpose in mind, you have to discipline your sense of contacts and improve your sense of communication. In the first part of your life, you are likely to continue to travel or experience new adventures, but you should keep it at that, because later on, this temptation towards far-off regions and "elsewhere" would only slow down your evolution. That is why during the second part of your life, you will have to devote yourself to studying or teaching, which are two ways of exploiting your many experiences: journalism seems to be a good path. Develop the idea of brotherhood and accept opinions that are different from yours, because it is part of the lessons you need to learn in this life.

	DELINEATION BLACK MOON

Black Moon in Aries

In Aries, the Black Moon acquires the spontaneity and impulsiveness characteristic of that sign, which amplifies its violent aspect. You take risks by defying interdicts and taboos with a sort of exhilaration. Your energy is as intense as destructive, and you could cause people around you to leave you or run away: indeed, your "brutality" is coupled with a blind and implacable demanding disposition. In fact, your burning passion for everything that has to do with action, provocation, and hard-core fighting, is a kind of compensation for your frantic desire to prove your abilities to everyone but maybe even more to yourself ... you challenge everybody and their brother without any consideration for the cruelty that goes with living continually such paroxysmal situations. You are really ready to sacrifice your life for your beliefs, but this implacable extremism very often takes you onto uncontrollable paths or into situations that are difficult to contain: what you care about first is action! You are likely to foster a real fascination (sometimes accompanied with shame) for weapons, especially knives or cutting tools.

Black Moon in House 04

The Black Moon in the fourth house influences the family, whether as such or on a larger scale, which means origins and roots. Regarding the family itself, it often indicates the absence of either your father, or the image of a father, or the stability and security that a father stands for. As a result, you are likely to continually look for a spiritual or emotional "father". With bad aspects, it is also possible that your relationships with your mother were difficult. It can also indicate an undefined feeling of shame or the rejection of your family, whether you caused it or they did. If we look at the broader picture, this position could mean being "cut off" from your origins (adoption, abandon, secret regarding your birth), exile, the crumbling down of your life before, or a loss of your roots. You are on a perpetual journey to find them, but you never really succeed: because of that, you will find it difficult to feel at ease or settle down anywhere; you will be convinced that your "home" is somewhere else. You are always in transit; you move often, whether you want to or not.
