GENERAL INTRODUCTION

We have carefully worked out a different method of studying relationships between people. In order to achieve that purpose, it has been necessary to combine a new astrological technique, a deeply humanistic psychology and the power of computer technology.

When two people meet, they each come with their own characteristics.

In the first part of this study, we have drawn the portraits of both persons involved by taking into account the "masculine" planets (Sun and Mars) in the woman's chart, and the "feminine" planets (Moon and Venus) in the man's chart.

What we invite you to discover in the second part of this study is precisely the chart of that relationship. We have calculated it just between the two births, both in time and in space.

This study has another purpose beside the psychological or material information it provides in all fields (love life, finances, ...): to help you understand more clearly the subtle mechanisms of your relationship, and offer you some simple and preventive advice.

We now invite you to start reading your chart interpretation and hope that your inquiry is being fully answered.

FIRST PART

Through the analysis of both your charts, we will cover the romantic ideal of each of you, your desires, the type of relationship that you can ideally expect.

The first step will be to verify that you correspond to the established portrait.

LAUREN

You are reserved by nature and submit feelings to the control of logic. In romance, you are said to be reasonable, modest and shy: in fact, you protect yourself from the violence of feelings. The unknown scares you. So you prefer stability, seriousness and naturalness. You will particularly appreciate tactful attitudes, delicate attentions, and tender interaction. You are hungry for emotional security. You are looking for a safe and strong companion who would fascinate you by his intellectual talents. Your ideal partner must help you discover a larger vision of things and thus expand the sometimes narrow world of your conceptions.

You are rather curious by nature and in love with variety in encounters and other centres of interest. You would find it hard to settle for a monotonous, stay-at-home and intellectually "flat" partner. Your type of man has humour, a fairly flexible nature, but he might be somewhat shallow. Places particularly favourable to meeting him are: places of exchange or intellectual entertainment (conferences, cultural seminars, ...), study (schools, colleges, ...) or public transportation (train stations, airports, ...).

You are bubbly as ever and freely share your energy and hunger for life. You will never lack people around you, especially men. In romance, you seem willing to take certain risks in order to live strange, unconventional experiences. These would satisfy your psychological curiosity and your need to challenge established usages and rules. You will know numerous loving friendships. Some of those will modify your behaviours and help you grow. With this type of energy, it is important that you learn how to perceive and experience the "here and now" freely. Do not try to freeze or pin down the established relationship.

You are very attractive and have a kind of magnetic power over people. Your desires are powerful, yet you know how to control them. Your psychological strength is remarkable, you instinctively know who is a possible partner: both your attractions and repulsions are very strong. In romance, you find obstacles stimulating. You generally use radical means to get what you want. A whole-hearted partner, with a discriminating mind and enough will and fighting spirit, could arouse your admiration. You like others to resist you. But your relationship can only bloom with mutual understanding of each other's motivations.

HUMPHREY

You are warm-hearted and driven by an ideal of good-heartedness and gentleness. You have a permanent desire for fellow feeling and understanding. You are sociable and strongly attached to those around you. You are also extremely receptive to gestures of tenderness (or protection). You are rather a dreamer, which often gives you feelings of nostalgia for the past and makes you sensitive to a certain poetry. The ideal partner for you will above all else have great qualities of the heart. She will be gentle and tender, and have her mind set on making a happy home and family. She will make sure your surroundings are a source of harmony and security. You are quite likely to find happiness in married life, and family will occupy the first rank on your priority list.

Your sensitiveness is far superior to that of most men. You depend a lot on your emotions, your feelings and your imagination. You are more or less liberated from your mother's hold over you (which might have been excessive), and can hardly resist women who know how to play you (need for tenderness, for "warmth" ...). Beware not to project your mother / son relationship onto other relationships. You need to make an effort of objectiveness and analyze your feelings in order to avoid weakening relationships. However, don't let this prevent you from choosing a tender and loving woman for a partner.

We find here a tolerant and optimistic spirit, and on the whole, a certain richness of the heart. The pursuit of pleasure can appear in you as a form of philosophy of joy, with the likely excesses that come with that type of theories ... Emotionally, you like to "replay" myths and your ears are still ringing with stories of valiant knights and noble damsels! You are particularly sensitive to people who seem extraordinary to you either through their beauty, their wits, or the civilization, art or region they represent in your eyes. One thing is for sure: many horizons will be open to love ...

In your personality, reason is trying to master feelings. In romance, you are afraid to expose yourself, and you don't like to make a show of your private life. You are modest, charitable and devoted to others. You would be totally fulfilled with an affectionate, simple, gentle and discrete partner. That is why your union will mostly be reasonable, in compliance with your desire for purity. In order for your feelings to unfold, it will be necessary for your partner to maintain a climate of intimacy. In some cases, there is a link between love and your professional circle.

SECOND PART

SUN AND MOON

The positions of the Sun and the Moon in the relationship chart give us information about the real motivations of your relationship, its reason for being and its profound evolution.

The Moon more specifically indicates the quality of feelings and emotions.

Make sure you read these texts carefully because they alone already indicate the quality of the relationship.

Favourable positions here will significantly soften any difficulty present elsewhere in the chart.

An exchange with these characteristics seems to be very favourable to shared enthusiasm and freedom of expression of both partners. You could show a great interest in everything related to leisure, the world of children, playful mindset (shows, humour, speculation) or pure artistic creation. In business, this combination can prove to be extremely positive, provided each of you has enough freedom of action and you are able to unify and structure this creative potential. On the whole, you are in for excellent moments, either in your activity or through some shared hobby, or on vacation together ... Emotionally, a powerful feeling could spring forth, but it would materialize in a creation or ambition in common (the artist and the Muse, desire of a child, etc.). With excellent aspects, this energy promises a lot of joy!

Somewhere between you, there is like a moment of "relived childhood": some kind of natural and pleasant ingenuousness and confidence. This mode of communication generally tends to happen on an emotional basis, with joy and fun. In fact, depending on the rest of the chart, this type of relationship can go from the most classic, agreeable love to a titillating, fun and dynamic relationship, made of laughter, winks and a tender, always renewed feeling of togetherness. Whether it be marriage or free love, you can be sure that fun, creativity and recreational activities will hold an important place in your life together. You definitely have the ability to be happy! Besides, you will be strongly attracted to children or everything that has to do with education.

VENUS AND MARS

The positions of Venus and Mars indicate to what extent you are attracted to each other and it considers the relationship on a physical level:

Venus through the ability to establish a harmonious relationship, and Mars through the related dynamics.

We will also analyze the balance of your relationship from a physical, sexual and sensual point of view

Undeniably, this relationship is mainly based on a feeling of affection, probably expressed discreetly, or more often in an intimate setting. Without necessarily talking about love, you seem to share affinities regarding your way of life. We most likely find here a strong desire to create a stable emotional basis, to have a harmonious family life, maybe even the same attraction for pleasant, comfortable homes that are arranged with taste. Of course, this influence is favourable to living together or starting a home and family, if confirmed by the rest of the chart. Otherwise, it can indicate a peaceful friendship, or point out that you enjoy spending good times together, at either house, etc. ...

Whether you are friends or in love with each other, you will express a good deal of your common strength in group activities. Maybe as part of a big collective project (disarmament, politics, unionism, etc.) or within a smaller associative group (sociocultural activities, sports coaching ...). On the whole, you will tend to live in the future, to project yourselves forward with strength and impulsiveness. This could cause some tension with people around you who would not be as energetic as you. Relationships that are passive, stiff or hypocritical do not suit you. But if your chart is too fiery, you might have more to lose from break-ups in friendship. Besides, some of your projects could abort because of being insufficiently prepared or unrealistic.

MERCURY AND JUPITER

Mercury and Jupiter affect the relationship on a more intellectual level.

Mercury stands for the mind and communication, and it gives us information about the capacity to dialogue, interact and exchange that exists between you.

Jupiter on the other hand stands for the strength of your union, everything that can be a positive element in the evolution of your relationship.

It seems natural to you that being together or building a relationship implies certain obligations and necessities, whether moral or material. You are not the type to run away from these problems and considerations. Generally you are willing to make a lot of mental efforts to obtain positive and appropriate results, to the point of imposing specific psychological rules on yourself. Here is the major drawback: you run the risk of being wrapped up in the thousand-and-one details of daily life. Or you could get tangled up in your desire to always settle things at best without delay. Of course, it is important to have both feet on the ground. But for the sake of your relationship, please don't forget that the unexpected or fantasy and immoderation also belong in a balanced and growing life.

You are living a harmonious relationship that allows each of you to express yourself freely and be loved for who you are. Your love story is simple: you appreciate each other, and your partner is in most cases the one you were looking for. You will express your affection for each other naturally, with a lot of warmth and intensity. Even in cases of difficulties, you are not the type to diminish your partner; honour is extremely important to both of you. Both of you are rather idealists and will try no matter what to maintain your relationship at a high level. In some cases, a common philosophical or religious ideal will be at the origin of your involvement with each other. In any case, whatever the reason may be for your being together, your relationship should be more than satisfactory. Family life also is under favourable auspices, and your children should fully meet your expectations. You are also likely to share an interest for leisure, healthy pleasures, entertainment and art.

SATURN AND URANUS

We will finish here with the study of Saturn and Uranus. They point out the areas where your relationship could have some difficulty, insecurity or even blocks and limitations.

Saturn indicates the areas of the relationship that might need structuring or that are rigid.

Uranus, as a planet of independence and freedom, indicates the degree of sociability of your couple. It also gives information about your friendships and the areas in which you are likely to cooperate.

You have very few projects, hopes and desires, but they are essential to you. One of you could turn out to be fairly shy or unassuming, and thereby delay the coming to the surface of friendly or intimate feelings between you. In romance, it would be good if you managed to express your desires freely, particularly in sexuality where there might be some problems. Usually, you will try to preserve moments of solitude or silence and peace away from your friends. Unless we are dealing here with a real misanthropist, because of a very rigid morality, you will keep a few friendships going. However, you are looking more for quality than quantity in that area of your life. You prefer mature or older people, whom you consider less superficial and unstable.

You will find it somewhat difficult to moderate the expression of your individualities. But your respect for the other as an individual needs to be stronger and has to come before your frenzied need for independence. Your union might have started under special circumstances and be based on mutual freedom (free love, sometimes). It can only be satisfactory if it brings understanding, friendship and cooperation between you, as well as a strong intellectual communion. Together, you could work on something new, different and nonconformist. You have access to very varied circles through your originality, contacts and connections, which are out of the ordinary (famous or exceptional people ...). However, keep in mind that any attempt to restrict the other's freedom of action will automatically cause the end of the relationship, in a very abrupt and final way!
